21ST YEAR--No. 6,488.

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 21, 1889.

NEW ADMINISTRATION.

MESSRS. HINE AND DOUGLASS SWORN INTO OFFICE.

It Takes Just Ten Seconds to Effect a Change in the Administration of District Affairs - The First Board

This was a day of greeting and parting at the District buildings. The men who for over three years have held the office gave way to the new appointees. It took just ten seconds by the big round clock in the board-room to effect the change, and thus almost in the twinkling of an eye the new administration was launched. Dr. Tindall gave the eath of office, and standing at the end of the long table, around which the board meet, Messrs, Hine and Douglass held the book. First the former kissed its nearest rim and then his colleague did the same. Then they grasped each other by the hand and every one in the room congratulated them. The ceremony was exceedingly simple, and upon its conclusion Mr. Webb requested every one, except the Commissioners, to leave the room, and a moment later the three rulers of the couston Mr. Webb requested every one, ex-cept the Commissioners, to leave the room, and a moment later the three rulers of the cept the Commissioners, to leave the room, and a moment later the three rulers of the District were alone.

Among those in the room who winessed the taking of the oath was Superintendent of Schools Powell, Attorney for the District Riddle, Intendant Stoutenburgh, Mr. McFarlan, a brother-fu-law of Commissioner Douglass: Assistant District Attorney Davis, Health Officer Townshend, Coroner Patterson, the retiring Commissioners and half a dozen reporters. The board immediately went into its first executive session, which was rather informal. A number of papers requiring early attention were gone over, and the Commissioners informed themselves upon their salient points. Then the meeting adjourned.

It was nearly noon to-day before either Messrs. Hine or Douglass arrived at the District buildings. About ten minutes of the hour Mr. Douglass climbed the iron-bound stairway and came into the office he is to occupy. He quite took everyone by surprise, and just missed seeing a rather affecting scene, Word early went round the building that the retiring Commissioners would be glad to meet all of the District employees and tell them good-bye, and so it was that from 10:30 until nearly 12 o'clock there was a constant stream of people from all over the building making District employes and tell them good-bye, and so it was that from 10:30 until nearly 12 o'clock there was a constant stream of people from all over the building making their way to the rooms. It was an informal affair, this leave-taking, and there were not many smiles, except on the face of Mr. Wheatley, who was as cheerful as ever and had a pleasant word for everyone, from the head of the most important department to the man who cleaned the cuspidors.

They all wished him long life and a happy one, and then passed on into Mr. Webb's room and took his hand in parting. Mr. Webb seemed much affected by the many kind expressions of his old subordinate and kept saying over and over again "Well, gentlemen, we have to part, but i is only officially, we will always be good friends." All day business was practically suspended in the offices and though the clerks bent over their books not much work was done. Many and various were the comments passed upon the new men, and without any particular reason all of them came to the conclusion that they would make remarkably good officials.

At the First Boand Meeting

AT THE FIRST BOARD MEETING held to-day by the new Commissioners, Mr. Douglass was elected president, and it was decided hereafter to hold board meetings at 2 o'clock each day. Immediately upon coming out of the room they were conducted to their desks by the old Commissioners. Mr. Douglass will occupy the room so long used by Mr. Webb, and for the present will attend to the routine work formerly done by him as president of the board. Mr. Hine now sits at Mr. Wheatley's old desk. This arrangement is of a temporary character only, and will continue until the organization of the new administration has been completed, which it is hoped will be finished before the end of the week. AT THE PIRST BOARD MEETING of the week.

This afternoon the Commissioners held a reception in their rooms, and met all of the employes of the District Government. The clerks from each department went in with their chiefs and shook hands with the new of Internal Revenue. The two gentlemen had a pleasant talk.

The last official act of the old board was

The last official act of the old board was the granting of a pardon to Sarah Johnson, who is confined in the workhouse, and the first act of the new Commissioners was the signing of a requisition on the collector for $5,000, to be used in street improvements.
The new Commissioners filed their bonds yesterday afternoon. Each bond is $50,000 and the sureties on Mr. Hine's are Messrs.
Jess B. Wilson, James L. Norris, Alexander T. Britton, George T. Dunlop and John E. Herrell, and on Mr. Douglass' William
S. Thompson, F. A. Schneider, William E.
Abbott, Joseph E. Gawler and Jonathan S.
Smith.

THE NEW LINCOLN HALL.

A permit was to-day issued by the Building Inspector to John A. Prescott, as owner, for the erection of an amusement hall on the northeast corner of D and Minth streets. The building will stand on the old Lincoln Hall site, and will be built of brick, three stories high. The orchestra will be on the ground floor, only three steps above the sidewalk, and the principal entrances will be on D street, stairways leading to the proscenium similar to those at Albaugh's. The lobbies will be fire-proof, and every precaution has been taken by the architect for the escape of the audience in case of fire. There are seven exits that may be used, five of them on Minth atreet and the two main entrances. The building fronts 126 feet and extends along D street 100 feet. The cost will be $100,000.

CHARGED WITH MURDER. Dorsey Suber Put on Trial for His Life

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Dorsey Suber, a neatly-dressed, yellow-complexioned man, was placed on trial in the Criminal Court to-day on the charge of murder. The Government was represented by A. A. Lipscomb, and Campbell Carrington appeared for the prisoner. The trouble which resulted in the death of James Payne on the night of December 27, 1883, occurred at a house on E street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth. Suber lived in a back room of the house and Mary Thornton occupied the front room. Mary Thornton, Virginia Payne and Dorsey Suber were talking when Mary Thornton told him he was a lfar. Dorsey told her to "shut up." Virginia Payne was paring her corns at the time and said to Thornton, "Don't you do it; you talk as much as you choose." She shook her fai in Suber's face and he said "don't you cut me." Suber went to his room. Wirginia Payne's son James heard the noise and came up stairs and went to Suber's room and a quarrel ensued which resulted in Suber's stability Payne five times with a penknife. This happened between 12 and 1 a. m. 1 Physicians were sent for but none could be brought in attendance until 7 o'clock. An important point of the defense turns on this circumstance, as Dr. Morris testified that if a physician had taken the case at once he had no doubt that the man's life could have been saved. It is also claimed that Payne was the aggressor and had Suber down across the bed when he inflicted the penknife wounds. Payne was wounded about the left shoulder. Death resulted from hemorrhage and shock.

Dr. Morris was not called until several hours after the occurrence, when Payne had lost a great deal of blood. Dr. John R. Francis swid that if these were no to.

Dr. Morris was not called until several bours after the occurrence, when Payne had lost a great deal of blood. Dr. John R. Francis said that if there were no in-ternal hemorrhages, as stated by the coro-ner, Payne should have been saved, as the wounds were very simple. If he had been properly treated at a hospital or elsewhere he would have been saved.

How Justice Was Dispensed By Judge Miller To-day.

Judge Miller appeared in Police Court to-day, and justice dispensed in the usual way, "What, ho! Louis Fisher!" the balliff cried out, and at once in the dock there was shuffling about. A man, black as coal, who, 'twas easy to see, was scarcely as fresh as he once used to be. Lucy Coleman complained that her chaste ears had caught-the sound of a word that no gentleman ought to use when a lady is anywhere 'round. A ten-dollar fine was the penance he found. Nailor's alley was rife with excitement last night; Annie Hamilton went out and got rather tight. She managed to get up a vitreous hash, by throwing a brick through Miss Pratt's window sash. Miss Hamilton came to Police Court to-day—for her little amusement ten dollars she'il pay.

Jackson Washington cussed at his neighbors and swore, then turned him about and reviled them some more. "He raised up a 'citement," oxplained a shy girl, "an' jes kep our alley mixed up in a whirl." Toward the gloom of the workhouse his steps he'il incline, unless he, perchance, can put up a small fine.

John Williams came forth with dismay

small fine,
John Williams came forth with dismay on his face, and was plainly disposed to find fault with the place. His words had been loud; he was bolsterous, too—five dollars from him to the city is due.

A Change in the President's Hours.

In order to have more time for the transaction of public business the President has decided upon certain changes in the hours devoted to the reception of visitors on business. Commencing with to-day, the business receptions will begin at 11 o'clock instead of at 10, as heretofore, and on Cabinet days (Tuesday and Friday) will close at 12 o'clock promptly. On Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday the receptions will last until 12:30 o'clock. The President will reserve Monday to himself, and will receive no visitors on business except by appointment. Persons desiring to pay their respects will be received as usual at 1 o'clock p. in. on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Work of the Sloux Commission.
Champerlan, Dak., May 21.—The report has been received here from a reliable source that the Sloux Commission will begin work at Lower Brule and Crow Creek agencies. They will probably arrive in this city May 30 or 31, and cross the Missouri here to Lower Brule, where they begin operations. It is believed that this is a good move, as no trouble will be met with in securing virtually all the signatures at these two agencies.

The constant friction produced by than those of the man who never tasted the weed. The constant friction produced by the mastication of the quid has the effect of wearing away the tartar that accumulates even in the most cleanly mouth, and the nicotine, I have heard said, has a tendency to sooth the sensitive nerves that lead from one's molars to his brain. At least I have from practical experience found it to be the case."

GET INSURED FOR A NICKEL.

The Newest Slot Machine Now in Use

The latest nickel-in-the-slot machine is to be put in the principal stations along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, as it is in use along the Reading and some of the princi-pal reads in the West. All you have to do is to put a nickel in the slot and pull out a is to put a nickel in the slot and pull ouf a life and accident insurance policy or ticket. It is a stout card, about an inch and three-quarters wide and three and a half inches long. The five cents insures the legal holder for twenty-four hours at $500 for death, $500 for loss of two feet or hands, $500 for loss of two eyes, $500 for loss of one foot and one hand, $250 for loss of one hand, $250 for loss of one foot, or $1.50 per week for twenty-six weeks by any kind of hand, $250 for less of one foot, or $1.50 per week for twenty-six weeks by any kind of accident occurring on railroads or steamboats. The party who draws the eard out of the box must write his name, the date and the hour upon the ticket, and it is only good for twenty-four hours afterward. The policy is not for children under 16 nor for persons bereft of reason, sight or hearing. The policy is issued by an English company through managers in Boston.

the Nine Is Drinking.

President Hewett this morning denied the stories of wholesale fining of the Washington team that have gained currency of late. "About a week ago," he said, "two of the players were fined $25 apiece for drinking malt liquors to excess. To the best of my knowledge there has not been any drunkenness since. Of course I hear lots of stories about this player and that player, but I have to have pretty good proof of a player's drinking before it would do to fine him for it. I was sure of it in the two cases I mentioned, and so the fines were made. I think they have been a warning to the rest of the boys, and as far as I know the drinking has stopped."

Drops Into a Raging Torrent Without Injury,

Without Injury.

New Yonk, May 21,—"Steve" Brodle, the bridge jumper, made a wild leap from Points Rocks, a ledge of stone over the Passale Falls, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning. He sprang 105 feet into a rock-bound canyon and was resented in an exhausted condition. Long before daylight Brodle, with a small party of men, went out on the Passale, and the bridge jumper, attired in a red flannel shirt and drawers of a similar color, advanced out toward the ledge. He stepped holdly out upon a projecting rock higher than any of its mates, and which hung over the yawning chasm.

The spell-bound on-lookers saw him make the sign of the cross on har red flannel shirt, watched his knee joints band outward and his body sway forward. Then they caught a fleeting glimpse of a flash of red topped with black as it shot downward into what was apparently a winding sheet of foam. There supervened a sullen plunge as the waters opened and received the falling body, which could be heard above the roar of the cataract. A group of friends on the river bank peered eagerly down into the scething masterom, but Brodle's body was lost to sight in the cloud of spray in the basin before he ever touched the water.

in the cloud of spray in the basin before he ever touched the water.

An onlooker was holding a stop-watch in his hand, glancing eagerly from it to the water below, and he said mechanically. "I am pretty sure I saw him strike the water. Only thirty seconds have passed. He may be all right yet."

Silence ensued again, and all eyes were fastened on the water. Thirty seconds more clapsed, and then a hoarse shout came from the man with the watch: "There he is, there he is! See him, see him; but I am arraid he is dead."

They all saw Brodie then. He was lying there he is! See him, see him; but I am arraid he is dead."

They all saw Brodle then. He was lying on his back in the water in a bent attitude. His eyes were closed and his face was as white as chalk. The reckless man was not dead, but evidently dazed and shocked. An eddy caught him and stung him against the rocky wall on the opposite side of the fall. The shock seemed to revive him, for he new weakly to the rock, as a sick child to him, for he new weakly to the rock, as a sick child fee, i.e., ineffectual efforts to keep afloat, the half-dead man was carried away from his temporary stopping place and swept down stream by the current, which ran like a mill race. He lodged upon a partially submerged ree for focks, and hung like a leech to them.

A flask of whisky was lowered to him, and after emptying it he was sufficiently revived to swim a hundred yards to the basin below, where he was rescued. It was not the greatest jump Brodle ever accomplished, nor the highest, but it was the most perilous ever made. After returning to his saloon he said: "I am going to jump the Genesce Falls some day, and then I am done bridgesjumping forever." His handsome little wife interrupted and said: "The very first time. Steve Brodle, that I hear you say jump again I will have you put in a lunatic asylum." jump again I will have you put in a lunatic trate to attend the Suffolk County Fair in October.

The claim for such a special honor to Suffolk County was based upon the fact that the President's grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Harrison, was born near Riverhead, where the fair will be held, and also that President Washington, shortly after his inauguration, made a tour of Long Island. Stress was also laid upon the fact that the cast end of Long Island, embracing Gardiner's Bay, constitutes one of the strongest strategic points on the American continent, and is known as the Gibraltar of the Western World. The President stated that it was a long time shead, but he would consider the matter and Mr. Nimmo left the White House in good spirits. Those who saw the President to-day embraced Senators Cullum, Blair and Quay, Representatives Ewart, Cannon, Rife and Mott, Paymaster Thomas H. Hooker, Superintendent of Education Dawson and Treasurer Huston.

More Trains to Run Between That City and Washington. and Washington.

The Virginia Midland Railroad Company has perfected an arrangement by which they will carry passengers between this city and Alexandria. The Virginia Midland runs its trains over the Washington and Alexandria tracks, which are a part of the Pennsylvania system, but heretofore they have been resirained from engaging in the local traffic hetween Alexandria and this city. Under the new arrangement all the Virginia Midland trains will carry passengers between this city and Alexandria. It is stated at the Richmond and Danville offices that there will be no competition and the only effect of the charge will be to afford additional facilities for going to and from Alexandria. There will be five or six more Alexandria trains each way each day under the new arrangement.

ROYAL "JIM-JAMS."

What it is Alleged Has Been the Matter With the Duke of Edinburgh. Loxnox, May 21.—The action of the Madrid Court of Justice in passing sentence London, May 31.—The action of the Madrid Court of Justice in passing sentence of four months imprisonment upon Senor Refact Corrome, the well-known Spanish novellst and Journalist, for writing and causing to be published a libel upon the Duke of Edinburgh, creates a good deal of talk at the clubs. The article, which was written while the Buke was with the Brilish squadron at Barcelona, was filled with scandalous statements contenting his private life, and appeared in large type in the leading Republican newspaper of Valencia. The Prince was very auxious that the matter should be hushed up, but the public prosecutor thought different, and the unlucky journalist is now paying penance for his "beat." Copies of the paper, however, had in the meantime found their way to certain club roysterers in London, who are always on the public for any thing with a salacious flavor, and so society is fairly reveiling in Senor Corrome's revelations. No English paper has so far diared to print, however, the current rumor that the fever and attack of nervous prostration which necessitated the bringing home of His Royal Highness by special steamer was in reality an attack of what among common people would be designated as the "jimjams."

The details, too, of the prince's arrival at

The details, too, of the prince's arrival at Portsmouth have been colored by the Court Journal to meet the usages of politic society. The truth is that, although the Duchess of Edinburgh was waiting on the jetty when the Alexandria steamed into Portsmouth harbor at 10 o'clock at night, she was not allowed to see her sick husband. He had suffered a "slight relapse," so the deeter said, and could not be disturbed. It was probable, moreover, that several days would elapse before he would be equal to the fatigue of a railroad journey. Yet, wonderful to relate, the next morning this very sick man was so much improved that The details, too, of the prince's arrival at wonderful to relate, the next morning this very sick man was so much improved that he was able to walk to the train and to make the entire journey to London without interruption. The builetine issued on the morning after his arrival announced that he was 'greatly improved,' and, in a few days, thanks to the waterful eye of the Duchess, he was as well as ever.

Damage Caused by the Flames in New York This Morning.

New York, May 21.—A fire was discovered shortly after 5 o'clock this morning on the first floor of the five-story building, Nos. 125 and 127 Front street. The building also fronts on Nos. 65 and 67 South street, running through the entire block. The flames spread rapidly, and it was sometime before the firemen got them under control. The cellar, first floor, fourth and fifth floors were occupied by Charles E. Bellows as a storage warehouse. His toss is $50,000. The other occupants of the building were dealers in teas and coffees. Their fosses are: J. R. Merhew, Eureka Mills, and John Wright, on the first floor, damaged $5,000 each; J. H. Labarre, on the second floor, and Thelan & Co., on the third floor, had their stock damaged to the exfloor, had their stock damaged to the ex-tent of $10,000 each. All the losses are fully covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is not known.

THE CONDITION OF THE PEASANTS IN TIPPERARY, IRELAND.

Ms. O'Brien Describes to the Parnell Commission the Good Work of the Land League-The Patriot Editor

Lendon, May II.—Mr. William O'Brient testified to-day before the Parnell Commission. The fact that his testimony was expected to-day draw large crawds to the court-room, and the wikness was listened to with great attention. Owing to Mr. O'Brien's weak condition, the result of his long imprisonment, he was allowed to remain seared. In a low weak voice, which it was difficult to hear beyond the counsels' table, the witness gave a detailed account of agrarian outrages perpetrated in County Tipperary prior to the formation of the National League is that district. The league, said the witness, after it was established, prevenied a wholesse famine and a fearful war in the west of Ireland in 1870. The witness declared that no murders had been committed in Tipperary sluce the formation of the league, the condition of the league the c.

Mr. O'Brina described the wretched condition of the league, The poor tenants were in debt up to their necks, and had absolutely no redress against oppressive and brutal landlords. The witness said the troubles that came on after 1870 arose from the universal movement made by the landlords to take advantage of the 'Ywo years' 'clause allowed by the act of 1870 to get rid of small tenants, and thus save paying them the compensation due them. The witness described the com-act of 1870 to get rid of small tenants, and thus save paying them the compensation due them. The witness described the con-dition of County Mayo at the time that Michael Davitt formed a branch of the league there as appalling, "Wholesale famine and bankruptcy seemed inevitable," said he. "Farmers sold everything at a dead loss, and londlords did not lift a hand to help them, but, on the contrary, denied that any distress existed."

A FEROCIOUS FIGHT.

Cowboys and Soldiers Rout Some Horse-Stealing Indians. Cowboys and Soldiers Rout Some Horse-Stealing Indians.

Winnifed, Max., May 21.—Word has just been received here of a ferocious fight which took place near Fort McLeod last week between a band of Blood Indians on one side and a force composed of soldiers, cowboys and Gros Ventres on the other. The Bloods have lately been stealing horses from the Gros Ventres, and the latter, assisted by soldiers and cowboys, made an effort to recover the stolen animals. As usual, the stories as to the number of killed are conflicting, but it is certain that quite a large number were slain. Most of the fallen, but three or four were discovered on the field minus scalps. The Bloods appear to have gotten the worst of the encounter. They got away with most of the stolen horses, and are now being closely followed by mounted police. Another encounter is likely to take place when the police come upon them, and serious trouble is feared. It is alleged that American Indians in Montana are going to the Bloods assistance.
